

Pressure Not Road to Peace—Khrushchev

NEW DELHI, India (CP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev told Parliament today all international disputes should be settled on the principle of peaceful co-existence.

"The way out of all disputes should be sought through negotiations and not through pressure and dictation," the Soviet premier said in the first major speech of his four-nation "peace and friendship" tour of Asia.

Addressing a joint session of parliament he seemed to be making a strong plea for a negotiated settlement in the bitter dispute between India and Red China over 50,000 square miles of their border territory.

Khrushchev received a huge ovation from standing members as he passed down the aisle, clasping his hands before his face in the traditional Indian greeting.

Vice-President Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan introduced him as "a courageous fighter for peace."

Said Khrushchev:

"We can easily foresee when countries of Asia which only yesterday were oppressed colonies will be among the most advanced nations of the world. The nations of Asia and Africa are starting to build new lives for themselves."

"Our sympathy always has been on the side of countries like Cuba, which is actively defending its national and economic independence."

The Soviet Union is always ready to render disinterested support for those countries struggling against aged economic backwardness."

This declaration by Khrushchev drew loud applause.

Khrushchev received full V.I.P. treatment when he arrived here today but with none of the tumult or crowds that welcomed President Eisenhower in December.

Between 100,000 and 200,000 persons turned out to cheer the Soviet premier as he started his Asian tour—a marked contrast to the million and more who welcomed the American president.

Later this afternoon Khrushchev paid a 45-minute courtesy call on Prime Minister Nehru and opened their political and economic talks.

Beaming and waving his white Panama hat to thin lines of flag-waving Indians, the Soviet premier seemed either unaware or undaunted by the comparison of the welcomes.

A major reason for the smaller crowds today may have been tighter security controls ordered to prevent the motorcade from being blocked even once. And Khrushchev is paying a return visit to India, having been here four years ago.

Khrushchev is receiving the same head-of-state treatment as Eisenhower. He is attending a similar state banquet, is addressing both houses of Parliament and will even sleep in the same bed.

Khrushchev and his large party of relatives and Soviet officials arrived after an overnight flight from Moscow in a big Ilyushin turbo-prop airliner.

In a brief prepared speech at Palam Airport, Khrushchev praised Nehru as one who "realized full well the significance of friendship between our countries and our common struggle for consolidation of peace and friendship among all nations."

He called personal visits between government leaders "one of the effective means of invigorating international atmosphere and promoting mutual understanding between states".

"Soviet-Indian co-operation in the international arena is of importance to securing a durable peace," he said. And he held out an invitation to Indian statesmen to visit Russia.

President Rajendra Prasad responded with praise for Soviet-Indian economic co-operation.

The visit is of great political and economic importance to India. The two countries sign today a $378,000,000 credit Russia has contributed to the third Indian five-year plan.

MISSILE KILLS MISSILE IN U.S. ARMY TEST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army today claimed the first known kill of one supersonic missile by another missile.

The action took place Jan. 29 over White Sands, N.M., when a Hawk anti-aircraft missile scored a direct hit on its target, an Honest John missile.

The army disclosed this development in a short motion picture shown to reporters at the Pentagon. The show came after a briefing, with pictures, designed to uphold the army's contention that the administration should release funds to speed development of the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile.

Who Launched Mystery Moon?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mysterious satellite that the United States defence department said may be of Russian origin tumbled through space today. Moscow has said nothing about it.

SEAPLANE CRASHES

OAK HARBOR, Wash. (AP) — A twin-engine Navy patrol seaplane, with eight to 12 crew members aboard, crashed in Puget Sound today.

Two bodies were recovered. There were no known survivors.

WIRE BRIEFS

Train Hits Slide

KAMLOOPS (CP) — The CNR's westbound Super-Continental plowed into a 10-foot high rockslide near Spences Bridge, about 100 miles west of here, early today, derailing two engine units. No one was reported injured.

Plane Veers Into Mud

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Eight persons, including two crew members, escaped with a shaking up early today when a twin-engine plane, unable to land at Toronto, because of an accident at the Malton airport there, veered off a runway here and ended up in heavy mud. (See page 7.)

Emergency Session

LONDON (Reuters) — The cabinet today held an urgent session to prepare emergency measures for a threatened nation-wide strike on the nationalized railroads at midnight Sunday.

Opposition Seeks Bill 43 Changes

Liberal and CCF bills which would revise sections of controversial Bill 43—the Trade Unions Act of the 1959 session—were introduced in the legislature Wednesday.

Rae Eddie (CCF-New Westminster) wants removal of the section of the act which holds unions legally responsible for the illegal actions of any member or agent, and presumes guilt of the union until it can prove its innocence.

Mr. Eddie's amendment would also remove a section which makes unions and management organizations, legal entities which may be sued for damages in event of illegal strike or lockout.

Here's all that the defence department knows about the object:

It appears to be in a near-polar orbit. It is dark and is probably less than 10 feet long. It is silent, as far as U.S. monitors are concerned.

But American space scientists have not ruled out the possibility that the satellite could be sending messages if triggered by a remote receiving station in Russia. However, these scientists have learned from experience that it is difficult to receive signals from a space vehicle tumbling in orbit, as this one appears to be doing.

NO INFORMATION

At Jodrell Bank in England, scientists at the radio telescope said they knew of no satellite sent aloft by the Russians recently and that they have no information on any new satellite around the poles.

U.S. navy tracking stations first spotted the object about three weeks ago. Nothing was said about it until Wednesday.

Scientists tended to rule out the possibility that it could be part of Russia's Lutnik III that took a picture of the far side of the moon last October.

Six U.S. satellites have been fired into polar orbits. The only one of them still circling is Discoverer VIII, launched last Nov. 20 from California.

Navy trackers who keep a continuous watch on all space objects said they knew the whereabouts of the Discoverer rocket casings—and that this object was not one of them.

All-Out Attack Order On Trapped Submarine

WE'RE LIKE THE BEES IN GETTING OWN HOME

OTTAWA (CP) — When it comes to buying homes, Canadian workers are like bumblebees—"they accomplish the seemingly impossible," the Royal Architectural Institute's committee on residential environment was told today.

Frontzini also instructed the foreign office to be prepared to break diplomatic relations instantly with the country to which the submarine belongs.

Official sources said a massive attack by the combined surface and air strength of Argentina's armed forces would start at midnight.

Frontzini's orders were understood to have been issued after a new midmorning sonar contact between Argentine surface craft and the mysterious submarine.

WITH Norman Cribbens

There is a subtle blend of humor and righteous indignation in the high-pitched tones of Health Minister Eric Martin.

Hence when he stormed at a CCF Opposition member for likening the Social Credit government to a Barnum and Bailey circus, you felt he was half-angry and half-amused that any CCFer should have the audacity to make such a comparison.

Shaking a fiery forefinger at Cedric Cox, the second member for Burnaby, Mr. Martin asked how any responsible parliamentarian could be so irresponsible as to compare his government to "a bunch of clowns in a circus."

"I have the honor to belong to a body of men who are not clowns in the first place and do not behave like clowns in the second—however much they may be encouraged by the power of example opposite."

His voice still hovering between humor and indignation, the minister said remarks such as these gave the legislature "a black eye it does not deserve."

"But then," he added sadly, "I don't think many people appreciate the amount of good work that this legislative body accomplishes. Appreciation is a rare quality."

It was a day of quaint contrasts. While Gordon Dowding, the loquacious CCF lawyer from Burnaby, was warning the terrible consequences of a private power monopoly in B.C., 86-year-old Tom Uphill was deep in the study of his Bible.

Mr. Uphill was reading the Book of Revelation, but whether he found in it anything relating to hydro-electric power, or the future of Wenner-Gren, he did not disclose.

Mr. Dowding revealed an impish humor when he mentioned that there are 600 alcoholics in Victoria (of all places).

"I have no doubt," he added, "that this government drives them to it!"

This involved him in an exchange of taunting remarks with Health Minister Martin, quickly suppressed by Deputy Speaker Alex Matthew, the Social Credit member for Vancouver Centre.

"I must ask the honorable members not to shout at each other across the floor of the House," said Mr. Matthew in mellifluous tones.

Randolph Harding, the youthful-looking CCF member for Kaslo-Slocan, is recognized as probably the best debater in the House, and on Wednesday night he revealed one of his secrets.

"Sitting opposite the government you learn what not to do and what not to say," he said.

'It's Gold Mine . . . We Want Ourselves'

Wenner-Gren will create an equity of more than $70,000,000 in an investment of $2,700,000 if the Peace River power project succeeds, Randolph Harding (CCF Kaslo-Slocan), told the legislature Wednesday night.

He added that other participating companies would make 900 per cent profit.

"No wonder Mr. Mainwaring says it is a gold mine and there is nothing like it in North America or anywhere in the world."

"We want that gold mine for ourselves and we want to pay dividends to all the citizens of the province," said Mr. Harding.

Mr. Harding urged that Columbia River power should be developed first as a public project. If Peace River power was needed also, it should be developed at once under public authority.

"We are not trying to stop the Peace River project but we want it developed as a public project," he said.

"We want the benefits of our power resources to remain with the people—and we would bring all hydro power under one authority throughout the length and breadth of this province."

Mr. Harding quoted W. C. Mainwaring, president of the Peace River Power Development Co., as saying that shares might be offered to the public at $10 each.

"If this were so, the Wenner-Gren interests would have an equity of more than $70,000,000 in return for an investment of $2,000,000, and other participating companies would make 900 per cent profit."

Mr. Harding said, when the company was formed, Axel Wenner-Gren spent $2,700,000 on surveys and for every dollar spent he received three shares of stock at a price of 33½ cents per share.

Other companies in the venture put up $1 for each share. "Right now Wenner-Gren and his executive, Bernard Gore, have a profit of $5,400,000 or 200 per cent on their investment."

"And if the shares go up these promoters will have reaped a fortune."

Mr. Harding said there were 14 shareholders in the company and 11,365,084 shares as at Oct. 1, 1959. Wenner-Gren controlled 7,134,231 shares amounting to 62.8 per cent of the total.

Bernard Gore controlled 1,230,660 shares amounting to 10.2 per cent.

"This means that they hold 73 per cent of the shares between them and the whole company would be controlled by these two."

Mr. Gore was already "cashing in." He had sold 250,000 shares to the Henry Ansbacher Company of London, England, last October, and "you can bet their price was at least $1 a share," said Mr. Harding.

"Mr. Mainwaring said in Vancouver Mr. Gore was given permission some months ago to transfer the shares to the Ansbacher Company but he did not know how much he got for them or why he transferred them."

(He said the 14 shareholders in Peace River Power must approve all transfers. Ansbacher was already a stockholder.)

Mr. Harding said if the Peace River promoters are successful, "it will put the skids under the Columbia project for a number of years to come."

He said most criticism of the Columbia project had come from Peace River officials.

TIPPLERS GET NOWHERE IN CAR OF THE FUTURE

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — A United States scientist says cars of the future may have a compulsory built-in device to determine the driver's sobriety. Dr. James Malfetti of Columbia University, New York, told the Hamilton Automobile Club that the device, using electronic apparatus, will automatically check every driver. A tamper-proof sealed unit would make it impossible for an impaired person to start his car, Dr. Malfetti said.

Warning on South America

NEARLY TWO YEARS AGO United States Vice-President Richard Nixon toured Latin-American countries and was subjected to unpardonable abuse and the threat of physical violence in some of them.

Within the next few days President Eisenhower will begin a South American journey, but it is inconceivable that he will be subjected to indignities similar to those imposed upon his first lieutenant in May, 1958.

At the time of Mr. Nixon's visit, several explanations were advanced for the anti-American demonstrations staged in his presence. Some were believed to be communists-inspired. This may have been the case, but it seems reasonable to assume that no nation would have permitted a special group to act in such a manner had not the temper of the people-as-a-whole been something less than whole-heartedly cordial toward the United States.

The South Americans were displeased by what they considered their big northern neighbor's arbitrary action against some of their exports. The oil producers of Peru were not happy with the import restrictions placed on their production by the United States. The copper interests of Chile were similarly distressed by barriers raised against them.

In view of these circumstances and the President's approaching tour, it is interesting to note the conclusions and recommendations of a United States National Planning Association report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee now reviewing foreign policy.

Major changes are needed, it says, in "the attitude or spirit" in which United States policies are administered in Latin America. Particularly is this the case, the report adds, in the field of economic policy where a marked absence of long-range planning is apparent.

Resentment caused by this lack of consideration may make President Eisenhower's Latin-American tour more difficult than any of his recent journeys to other parts of the world.

The South American people remember the recognition accorded the vital relationships of western hemisphere nations during the war years. At that time the United States was heavily dependent on them for raw materials. It took the trouble to see that Latin American countries had easy access to the White House.

A revival of somewhat similar relations, says the National Planning Association, would produce substantial and immediate benefits to the United States.

Revision of American policies that place quotas on lead, zinc, copper and petroleum, could create closer harmony among nations of the Western Hemisphere.

Undoubtedly the attention of the President has been drawn to these matters. A constructive approach, with appropriate kind words, from Mr. Eisenhower, should do much to repair Latin-American fences, particularly at a time when Soviet subsidies there are making wide gains in them.

Any such gestures would be noted with absorbing interest in Canada, which has also had reason to recognize the damage export quotas can do to sales to its chief customer, the United States.

Victory and Problems in Kerala

AT THE BEGINNING OF THIS month anti-Communist forces scored a major victory at the polls in the Indian state of Kerala. The coalition, which campaigned as a team to avoid dividing the vote, has a majority of seats in the legislature. Thus it regains control of the first region of any size to give communists power in a free election.

But the triumph carries with it the responsibility to undertake a heavy task in raising living standards. Moreover, say those on the scene, the election has not destroyed communism in Kerala—far from it.

On the basis of almost complete returns, the Congress Party had elected approximately twice as many members as the Communists, and in the alliance with the Congress Party were Praja Socialists and Moslem League, which elected fewer than the Communists.

One of the problems of the new state government will be political—how to allocate senior posts among members of the coalition. The other, more basic, will be to impress the have-not people in the state—the low caste, the unemployed and the people of little hope for material improvement—that the new state government can help them.

The importance of that task is revealed both in the division of the popular vote and in the attitude of the have-nots. The alliance enjoyed a substantial benefit from a widely extended franchise. But if the combined anti-Communist forces gained, so, also, did the Communists in the number of votes cast for them. And in defeat the Communists are working harder than ever.

When the forces of the extreme left originally gained power, their cause was helped substantially by popular revulsion against corruption and ineptness in the previous, largely Congress Party, government.

A relapse into inefficiency and a failure to improve the living conditions of the lower masses could result in a resurgence of Communist popularity.

It appears that in the recent election, the anti-Communist groups came together to defeat the old tactic of dividing and conquering by their enemy. Unity gave them strength at the polls. It remains to be seen now if the same unity will prevail in government and if government will be for the benefit of the people in general. The Congress Party and its associates have profited by Indian revulsion to Red China's Communist aggression. But this is no time for the winners to rest on their oars. Millions inside and outside India are watching them and their behavior could either create more Communists or reduce the Moscow following.

It Took Courage

NOw THAT PRIME MINISTER Macmillan's tour of Africa is concluded it is not out of place to assess the personal, rather than the political, implications of the visit. Even the British leader's bitterest critics would have to agree that he showed immense personal courage in going to the various African centres at this time, when the natives' agitation for autonomy is at its peak.

Mr. Macmillan must have known he would face many a delicate situation and frequent embarrassing moments but he did not flinch from the task. On the contrary he met each incident—whether an airport demonstration, a crowd's shout for "freedom now," or even the South African Prime Minister's insistence on the South African brand of "duty" in relation to black people as opposed to Mr. Macmillan's explanation of Britain's duty—he met all such situations with sincerity, good humor and an attitude of defiance, are obsolete.

Whatever criticisms of the British Government's African policy there may be—and they are heard in Britain as well as in Africa—there can be no doubt that the Prime Minister's tour was an act of statesmanship and of courage for which he should get full credit.

Sixty Years of Service

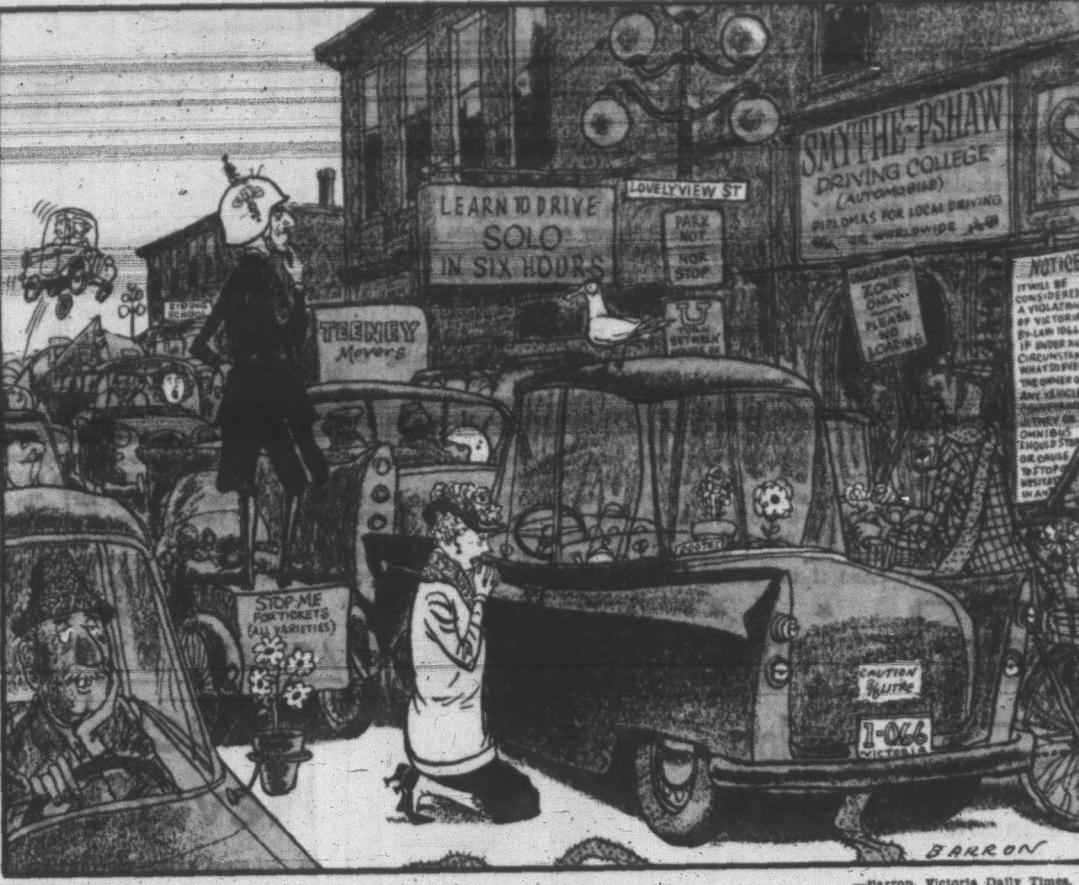

FEW ORGANIZATIONS FORMED as long ago as the Boer War have survived in as active and useful a state as the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. Designed initially to enable the women of England to give assistance to the fighting forces, the work has broadened during the years to include many other patriotic efforts. On February 13 the IODE will celebrate its sixtieth anniversary.

In two world wars the IODE rendered valuable service by providing comforts for troops, medical aids and other needs. Today the work embraces scholarships and bursaries to assist the education of worthy students in general fields and in the arts. Libraries have been established, guest homes for elderly citizens, sanatoria for tubercular patients, and many other projects.

But back of all the IODE work is a firm belief in the motto of "One Flag, One Throne, One Empire," and the inculcation of patriotic principles in an age when they form a necessary foundation for democracy. On its diamond anniversary the IODE may confidently look forward to another successful sixty years of service.

Personality Is the Determining Factor

WASHINGTON — As the majority party of the nation the Democrats could expect to carry this year's presidential election with ease. But they are caught in their own record and in an unwritten law of American politics.

As a result, everyone in Washington, including prominent leaders of the Democratic party, seems to agree that if the election were held now Mr. Nixon would win it. The Democrats boast of a good legislative record during the first seven years of the Eisenhower Administration.

Unfortunately for them, however, the record is a highly questionable asset—some would say a positive liability—it is a record of loyal support to a Republican President.

Having generally carried out his legislative wishes and never for a moment having dared to attack him seriously, how can the Democrats now complain of the Republican record which they so largely made? Thus they are paying a heavy electoral price for their fair, non-partisanship in the Congress which they control, and no doubt will control again after the election.

BY an invisible law of politics two separate electorates approach the polls every four years. They are composed of the same people but they often split their votes between the two parties, as they elected a Republican president and a Democratic Congress in 1956.

But if the Democrats refuse to nominate Senator Kennedy they may antagonize the important Catholic vote of the north. He may well be a great man but, nominated or rejected, he is an inconvenience of the highest magnitude.

More serious for the Democratic party, each of the five suffers from some grave disadvantage in those deep American folkways that govern the invisible Constitution.

SENATOR Kennedy is a Roman Catholic and no man of his faith has ever reached the presidency. It is often said that this old religious prejudice is dying in an age of enlightenment but recent polls indicate that it remains very much alive in the south which has always been the exclusive preserve and operating base of the Democratic party.

But if the Democrats refuse to nominate Senator Kennedy they may antagonize the important Catholic vote of the north. He may well be a great man but, nominated or rejected, he is an inconvenience of the highest magnitude.

For the benefit of such of your readers as may have been misled by recent articles in the Times glossing over that incongruous conglomeration of humanity on the little island of Formosa, euphemistically called "Nationalist China," I should like to recommend a recent Macmillan publication:

"The China Lobby in American Politics," by Ross Y. Koen. It is rightly advertised in "Foreign Affairs" as a "fully documented report of vital significance."

A sample of the documentation is an appendix giving in full the text of the famous "Policy Information Paper on Formosa," issued as classified material on December 23, 1949, and later de-classified. This document informed tude to the practical politicians of his party.

Senator Johnson suffers from another historic taboo—he is a southerner from Texas and no southerner has been elected president since the Civil War. No one doubts that he is the ablest legislator of his time or that he would make a sound president. No one doubts either that it will be difficult if not impossible to nominate him.

Senator Humphrey is handicapped by his image of a man rather too radical on the left side and by his lack of funds; Senator Symington (though he seems to have Mr. Truman's support) has not yet created any image of greatness; and Mr. Adlai Stevenson, already twice defeated, recalls too clearly the fate of William Jennings Bryan in a third trial.

NEVERTHELESS, these five men are above the historic average of quality in any convention and are clearly under-estimated at the moment mainly because none has been able to demonstrate his dominance. In consequence, the Democratic convention is likely to prove a stalemate, dissolved by a compromise between rivals, the probable compromise being either Mr. Stevenson or Senator Symington.

This seems inevitable unless Senator Kennedy, in his present whirlwind campaign through the state primary elections, can actually win advance control of a convention majority.

As another dispatch will note, great issues lie behind these personalities of one Republican and five Democrats though they may not emerge before the election.

Here, no doubt, is the explanation of officials like Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates; although it is not the explanation of some of the Eisenhower era chiefs of staff, who have time-served at the Pentagon in happy preparation for richer careers as lobbyists.

Hard Things

To the ordinary American, these may seem hard things to say. But they are necessary things to say; and they are literally true too.

Anyone can see their truth, who weighs the astonishing implications of the Eisenhower remarks above-quoted. In blunt words, the struggle to keep a grip on the budget has all but caused the administration to lose its grip on the hard realities of the ugly world we live in.

To be sure, there are other ways to attain the necessary purpose of a balanced budget. Taxes can be raised. Non-defence outlays, which have grown luxuriously in recent years, can be cut again "despite their high political voltage. But these other ways are ruled out by the President himself.

Thus the whole struggle to keep a grip on the budget is transformed into a struggle to prune the defence budget. Under this relentless pressure, the loss of grip on the non-budgetary defence realities inevitably occurs.

Maybe what amounts to an attempt to psychoanalyze the vast, amorphous organism of the American government will seem pretentious and unjustifiable. But the political reporter's task is to make the government comprehensible. And at present, the American government is simply and totally incomprehensible, unless you first comprehend the obsessive power of the viewpoint the President revealed in his reason for a nuclear test ban.

OPTIMISTIC SEX

From the experiments I have carried out with many hundreds of school children, students and adults it seems that many of us expect to be lucky. On the average, one in ten attempts at a task, and once in every fifteen attempts we expect to be very lucky. Similar expectations apply to being unlucky and very unlucky. There seems to be a significant sex difference: women think they are luckier than men. If, for instance, there are 100 raffle tickets with one winning ticket, women are much more likely than men to think that they will be lucky and draw the winning ticket.

Professor John Cone of the Department of Psychology, Manchester University,

FROM WASHINGTON:

All for the Budget

By JOSEPH ALSOP

"I AM of the belief that if you could have now a ban on all nuclear testing, that everybody could have confidence in it, it would be a very, very fine thing to stop this, for this very reason, if no other. It is a very expensive business, to begin with. The very first bomb we produced I think cost America $2,000,000,000 or more before we ever, ever had the very first one. And since that time I don't believe that our—although you'd have to look this up—but I think our appropriations have never been below $2,000,000,000 a year. So it is an expensive business."

These historic words, uttered by Dwight D. Eisenhower last week, afford a clearer glimpse of the inner workings of the President's mind than has ever before been allowed.

There are, after all, many different kinds of excellent reasons for seeking an effective ban on nuclear tests. There are world political reasons, strategic reasons, moral and biological reasons. But the President spontaneously, unhesitatingly chose a reason never before suggested in public.

A test ban, he indicated, would permit him to cut the budget of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Surely this singular choice of reasons for a high policy decision of truly immeasurable import, reveals a mind gripped by one idea to the point of obsession. Surely it shows a man driven by a single purpose almost to the point of mania.

The President's unnoticed remarks at his press conference can properly be called historic, in turn, because they explain so much that is otherwise inexplicable.

Ban and Gap

If you think about a nuclear test ban primarily in terms of possible budget cuts, how do you think about a missile gap? You think about it, the answer seems to be primarily in terms of the threat to the budget, and hardly at all in terms of the threat to the United States.

If you are president, moreover, and these are your passionately enforced priorities, you are not alone in thinking in this peculiar way. Your viewpoint is reflected downwards, through echelon after echelon, from the cabinet level, to the level of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and as far as the lowest level of the government's "Indians."

"Will it cost too much to do this?" is the first question everyone asks. Only as an afterthought does anyone inquire: "Will it be dangerous not to do this?"

In this administration, uniformity of viewpoint is virtually enforced. Independent-minded persons who do not take their viewpoint ready-made, from the White House have always been condemned as non-team-players. Soon or late, they have always met the fate of Gen. Gavin, Gen. Ridgeway, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Wholly honorable and intelligent men may also lack the self-confidence to pit their judgment against the President's or to argue military facts with him.

Here, no doubt, is the explanation of officials like Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates; although it is not the explanation of some of the Eisenhower era chiefs of staff, who have time-served at the Pentagon in happy preparation for richer careers as lobbyists.

By RUTH ENKE

The Five Needles

FIVE minutes ago I started to write a column that began: "Now that it's finished, Meadow Acres Subdivision is miles from any meadow."

At that point, the phone rang and a woman's voice asked me whether I was having any trouble filling out the radio and television survey form that had been mailed to me a few days ago.

Somehow, after that interruption, I can't get back to Meadow Acres. So, instead, let's have a quiet look at this latest form of the survey racket.

I first heard of it about 10 days ago when the same woman rang me up to ask whether I'd fill out the form if she mailed it to me. Curiosity and desire to keep column readers well-informed made me say "Yes," though I did admit that we don't own a television set and listen very little to the radio. I could give her the required information right then on the telephone, I told my questioner.

But this was not what the Toronto-based research outfit wanted. So the form arrived a few days later.

With it was a mimeographed letter which, addressing me as "Dear Friend," thanked me for my goodness in offering to cooperate with the survey, and told me that, enclosed, I'd find "a small token of our appreciation."

This startled me as I hadn't expected a reward of any kind. I was even more startled when I found that the token was a miserable little packet of five needles which couldn't have cost the research outfit more than one-quarter cent.

And do you know what I'm meant to do for the amazing fee of five needles?

First, I must read the instruction Sheet and study the key to the Survey Chart. The key has five columns, numerous arrows and a lot of little boxes full of printing which, if I am conscientious, I must read with care.

When this is done, I must take the yellow-covered eight-page Log Journal and, for the week of February 7-13, I must fill in how many M.W.C. (Men, Women, and Children) in my household are tuned in to a radio or television station. I needn't mention the program, but I must specify the time and the station. I must indicate whether the listening was done at home or at a neighbor's house.

I must keep my log up-to-date by making entries as I tune in, change stations, or shut off my set. I must show tuning for all members of my family. I must show the number of years of schooling of the head of the household. I must say which member of the family made most of the entries in the log. I must tell what daily newspapers I and my family read regularly. I must put ticks opposite a list of magazines. I must say whether we have a car, and, if so, whether it has a radio. I must list the people in my household and put them in their allotted age groups.

Now if I did all this conscientiously, the individual minutes spent on this form would add up to several hours of work, and involve endless questioning and nagging of every member of the family. The nervous wear and tear would be considerable.

And who would benefit?

The "Dear Friend" letter says that the broadcasting stations want the information for planning better programs and service for the public.

That sounds remarkably noble. Even for Toronto the Good!

Actually, it's nonsense. Somewhere, someone will be making good money out of this. And all because foolish women like myself said "Yes" on the telephone.

Sanity Is Moot

this way about the theories on which they have built the structure of their now crumbling edifice.

Dr. Bond goes on to speak of the terrible expense that is laid on taxpayers by the millions of neurotic, unhappy, ineffective and upset persons. They cause countless frayed tempers, unhappy homes and miserable marriages. "Surely no nation can be considered sound and strong if one-third of its people are sick in heart and mind."

How remarkable is Dr. Bond's description of an interesting woman patient of his who said, "I am bored by religion; I have dropped my music; I am bored by my stomach symptoms, my books, by everything. I don't like my house; I don't like the city I live in; I am bored by my husband!" She certainly needed to get a new and better start in life. Perhaps she could have been cured if she had only gone into some service in which she could have helped many people.

As Bond says, "Saints and others who take religion much to heart are apt not to be well-rounded people; nor are artists, creative thinkers, or inventors. One part of them is so advanced that other parts have not caught up." We have to forgive them their faults because of their great gifts. Actually, the world is rather charitable to the unconventionalities of great artists, writers, musicians, and actors. Most of us can see that they are not like ordinary people, and so we just cannot expect them to have in run-of-the-mill fashion.

Dylan Thomas, the Welsh poet, once said very truly, "I hold a beast, an angel and a madman in me." Bond even speaks of the streak of neurosis that is almost indispensable in a man if he is to get ahead in this world!

Many elderly people are concerned over little nodules; perhaps as big as the head of a pin, which appear in the skin, usually over the front of the chest. These are little tufts of blood vessels, and they are harmless. I never saw one turn into anything. Just why they appear on aging skins, I do not know.

TCA AIRLINER SKIDS ON BELLY, 59 UNHURT

TORONTO (CP) — A big Super Constellation airliner overshot the runway at nearby Malton Airport Wednesday night, skidded on its belly as the undercarriage collapsed, and crashed through a fence. The 53 passengers and six crew members, all uninjured, filed quietly out the door as gasoline spilled from the ruptured fuel system.

The Trans-Canada Air Lines plane, nearly two hours overdue on a flight from Vancouver to Montreal, crashed as the pilot, Capt. Douglas Holland, came in on an instrument landing in rain and heavy fog.

TCA officials questioned the crew members until early today.

Poor visibility at the airport caused cancellation of all flights from Malton and several other incoming aircraft were diverted to Buffalo.

There were a number of British Columbians aboard the plane, but no Victorians.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE VIEW

'Too Much Gov't Killing Business'

PENTICTON (CP) — Canadian business is being stifled by too much government, the national president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce said Wednesday.

H. Gordon Love, Calgary broadcaster and publisher, told a joint meeting of the Rotary Club and Board of Trade, that the chamber is opposed to growing government power.

"Right now we have too much government at top levels," said Mr. Love. "It is becoming too costly, and much of it is unnecessary. As government grows, the power of the individual lessens."

"One of the gravest problems which we face in the decade ahead lies in the area of government growth and government expenditures."

He said expanded government spending means that "we are all feeling the tax bite more and more in our daily lives."

The tax bite, if allowed to remain unchecked, will have a deadening effect on the healthful growth of Canada's economy.

In the field of labor-management relations, Mr. Love said that the "chamber policy urges that legislation should, among other things, prohibit agreements that deny or terminate employment because of an individual not being or remaining a member of a specified trade union."

Unions should be made responsible before the civil courts for their actions, he added.

In addition, the government should "provide for arbitration of disputes that endanger public health or safety."

Joint Alaska Paving Urged

Paving of the Alaska Highway should be undertaken jointly by Canada's federal government and the United States, with the B.C. government assuming responsibility for maintenance, Harold Roche (SNC North Peace River) said in the legislature Wednesday.

The manager of the Vancouver branch of one national company said in 50 per cent of the cases the head office probably would pay the bills without question.

Police said the men use stationery with a printed letterhead to write to head offices of large firms thanking them for advertising in their police-type magazine and enclosing a bill for between $35 and $50.

Police said the magazine named never has been published and probably never will be.

Traffic Signals No Sure Bet To Stop Mishaps

Accidents can go up as well as down when traffic signals are installed at intersections.

That's the finding of a special survey in Michigan and it's true here, too, city traffic engineer Norman Worsley observes.

He said traffic lights cut accidents sharply at Cook and Yates.

By contrast, the signals at Quadra and Bay were installed primarily to create better traffic conditions on Bay, and have doubled the accident rate on Bay. But the accident rate has increased from two to nine a year."

Tinkering With Electric Gadgets Can Be Deadly

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

In an age of great advances in the use of electricity it has long been a source of wonder that housing contractors have shied away from inserting electric shaver outlets in a bathroom.

Men who use these appliances have had to withdraw the electric kettle plug, the bedroom lamp plug or to move the piano if they wanted to shed whiskers the modern way.

Now, it turns out, the electrical inspection fraternity has approved the installation of outlets in the bathroom.

A. E. Cunningham, an electrical inspector for the city of Victoria, told the Victoria Real Estate Board Wednesday that his department approves the bathroom outlet — "but for electric shavers only."

"Our main opposition to it in the past," he said, "is that people used the outlet for a variety of appliances."

He cited the case of a woman who plugged in her radio and sat it on the edge of the tub while she bathed.

The radio subsequently joined the bather. When the woman pulled it out of the water it wasn't working.

Neither was she.

That can't happen anymore, he stressed, because electrical inspectors will only approve a certain type of bathroom outlet which will handle an electric shaver and nothing else.

In his illuminating discourse on electricity in the home, Mr. Cunningham made these points:

Canada has the highest fire rate from electrical causes of any country in the world.

Victoria, on the other hand, has a good—or low—fire rate "thanks to repeated checks by electrical inspectors, the fire department and citizens' cooperation in correcting weaknesses."

Considering the wealth of new appliances expected to flood the market in the next eight years "electricity hog."

Mr. Cunningham called them—it is provident to install 60 ampere wiring in new homes.

An average house today can "get by" with a 60 ampere circuit for most appliances including range, hot water heater and dryer "but that doesn't allow for additional power demands."

Brass sockets are no longer approved by electrical inspectors. Those who have them on the end of long cords near a bathtub should be aware that they are as "dangerous as the electric chair."

Tinkering with electrical circuits or cords at any time is dangerous regardless of the voltage.

"Some people say it can't hurt much—it's only 110 volts." That's not so. Many people have been killed by 110 volts. Some have left us by contacting 48 volts."

Sculptress To Claim Art Reward

(Compiled From CP)

VANCOUVER—A West Vancouver sculptress said Wednesday she has instructed her lawyer to claim for her a $1,500 reward offered for the recovery of more than $10,000 worth of paintings and icons stolen from the Vancouver Art Gallery.

The $1,500 is being held in trust by lawyer Harry Hill, who gave police a set of CPR locker keys that led to recovery of the works in the CPR station, January 20–10 days after the theft.

Mrs. Myra Butterfield said she is claiming the reward on grounds she wrote to Dr. William A. S. Dale, gallery director, "mentioning the name of the thief."

"The man I named is a former official of the gallery," she said. "The only person in town with the possibility of access to the gallery and knowledge to pick the works he chooses to steal."

She claimed that "it must have been my tip-off that led to the recovery, because the paintings were recovered just over a day after my letter was received by the gallery."

SIGN WAGE PACT

VANCOUVER—City's inside workers Wednesday accepted a settlement plan for their 1960 contract, designed to give them a 3 1/4 per cent pay increase, overtime adjustments and a new vacation formula. The Civic Employees Outside Workers' Union (Ind.) and the Firefighters' and Policemen's unions—still negotiating—had urged rejection of the proposal.

DIED AFTER PARTY

PRINCE GEORGE—An inquest into the death of Joseph Marvin Sinclair, 36-year-old woodcutter from Red Rock, B.C., has been set for Friday night.

Sinclair died early Tuesday in hospital at Vancouver after being flown there when he failed to regain consciousness following his return home from a house party Sunday night.

His wife told police Sinclair had complained of not feeling well and said he had been involved in a fight.

NORTHERN TRIP

FORT ST. JOHN—A 1,000-mile journey north of the 60th parallel has been completed by a cavalcade of trucks and bulldozers.

Contractor Beecher Linton directed the cavalcade from Hay Lake, in the Northwest Territories to Fort Nelson, B.C. Linton drove his own car the entire route.

The party picked up odds and ends of old trails and roads built mostly by oil drillers until it reached Fort Nelson, and the Alaska Highway.

The outfit will be employed on road construction somewhere between the south end of Dease Lake and Stewart, B.C., north of Prince Rupert.

FREIGHTER IN TOW

VANCOUVER—A crippled American freighter was expected to be towed into Vancouver for repairs to her engines.

The 66-foot coastal freighter Coral Sea had engine trouble on a run from Seattle to Alaska earlier. She anchored off Calvert Island in Queen Charlotte Sound and waited until a tug, Pacific Chief, took her in tow.

Spare engine parts will be flown to Vancouver from Seattle to repair the Coral Sea.

REPORT DENIED

PENTICTON—Manning Lee, a court interpreter, said Wednesday there was no suggestion of extortion from Communist China in a court case involving a young Chinese cook convicted of passing worthless cheques.

The Canadian Press erroneously reported that Mr. Lee said in an out-of-court interview that the cook told him the money was to keep his mother and brothers from harm in Communist China.

Mr. Lee said that he was given no such story.

29 DEATHS BLAMED ON STORM

Snow Cripples Mid-West

CHICAGO (AP)—The worst snowstorm in years crippled the blizzard-like storm. Stormy weather was blamed for at least 29 deaths. The storm dumped more than a foot of snow on parts of northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin and up to 16 inches on Iowa. Gale-force winds whipped the snow into towering road-blocking drifts.

At least 29 deaths were blamed on the storm, nearly half of them caused by heart attacks suffered by persons who were shoveling foot-deep snow.

Mrs. D. Mansell, Vancouver, B.C., and her Inglis Royal Pair

If you are thinking of buying an automatic washer or dryer read why 149,354 housewives were glad to pay more for Inglis

Inglis pioneered the manufacture of the automatic washer and dryer in Canada. Their engineers will tell you that, when it comes to home laundry equipment, they are interested in one thing only: Clean laundry, all done automatically!

This is exactly what you are assured of when you buy Inglis. It is an important reason why (to date) 149,354 women were very happy to pay more to get Inglis. Here are other reasons.

Let us join Mrs. D. Mansell (above) as she uses her Inglis Royal pair.

First, she selects the washing cycle that best suits the load she wants to wash. (Two of these ten cycles are Wash'n Wear actions that absolutely refuse to put wrinkles into wash and wear garments. The Inglis secret? As the wash water intermittently drains away, it is immediately replaced by cold water. This allows the garments to cool while in suspension; thus restoring the wrinkle resistance of the fabric.) Having selected the correct button, Mrs. Mansell puts in her soap or detergent and switches the washer on. This is what happens. The washer fills to the proper level at the proper water temperature for the type of fabric in the machine. Then, it selects the right washing speed, the exact time needed to do the wash, the correct rinse water temperature, and the proper, safe spin-dry speed. This is all done automatically.

The Inglis Royal even has a water selector that saves water on partial loads by using just the amount of water needed for the size of the wash.

The moment Mrs. Mansell switches on her Royal, the "Sani-Sun" germicidal lamp comes on. This remarkable device helps destroy common germs while giving the clothes a sweet, fresh air fragrance. At the same time, the built-in lint filter goes to work and works all the time the wash is on! Furthermore, the Inglis filter works just as effectively on partial loads.

Now the Inglis Suds and Water Saver. When big loads are being washed, hot sudsy water is ingeniously pumped into Mrs. Mansell's laundry tub for re-use with the next load. All she does is press the button marked "SUDDS," and only the clean water is pumped back. No, the sudsy water doesn't cool off because the thick suds form a very effective insulation.

The Inglis Royal also has an automatic built-in rinse conditioner dispenser; Free Flow draining, in which wash and rinse water are drained away from the clothes—not through them; four automatic water temperature selections—hot, medium, warm and cold.

Her wash completed Mrs. Mansell puts it into her Inglis Royal dryer. It has no less than eight automatic cycles to fit every fabric need. She turns the dial to the number she selects from the Console Fabric Guide. She starts the dryer and automatically sets the temperature, drying time and cooling fluffing time.

True, other dryers have somewhat similar features, so what made Mrs. Mansell and many others choose Inglis? For one thing, the Royal has a Moisture Minder that automatically shuts off the dryer at "dry enough." Secondly, there are no dangerous hot spots in an Inglis—the heat is tempered before it sweeps through the clothes in a scientific pattern. Thirdly, a built-in sani-lamp that drenches clothes with "sunshine freshness," without the danger of fading, and gives them a pleasing scent. It also helps sanitize the garments. Finally, the fabulous Wash'n Wear Time Cycles, which provide a 10-minute fluffing, cooling off action at room temperature...the only way you can dry Wash'n Wear garments in a dryer without wrinkles!

These are the reasons why Mrs. Mansell and 149,354 other housewives chose Inglis.

All that's left for you to do is visit your Inglis dealer. He will show you all three 1960 Inglis automatic models—the Royal, Citation, and Superb. Did you know that the lowest priced Inglis models give you more features than the highest-priced models of other makes? Do see your Inglis dealer.

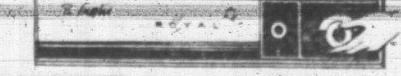

BUILT-IN LINT FULL-TIME FILTER
Works all the time wash is on—even on partial loads. Rinses clean under the tap.

TEN WASHING CYCLES including two for Wash'n Wear, cover every fabric need.

SUDS AND WATER SAVER saves hot, sudsy water for re-use with the next load. Special devices return only the clean water.

EIGHT AUTOMATIC DRYING CYCLES fit every fabric need. Includes special Wash'n Wear cycles for wrinkle-free drying of your wash-and-wear garments.

Billboard Firms To Protest Ban

Billboard companies will roll because 20 men would protest strongly against a proposed prohibition on large signs within the city, claiming it would kill a $200,000 annual business.

WINE TANKER UNDER TOW

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The crippled wine tanker Angel Petri was towed to safety in deep ocean waters Wednesday after a 26-hour fueling by a gale off the Golden Gate bridge.

The proposed change, and the sign companies' protests, will be studied by public works committee before the proposal goes to city council.

If approved, the new policy would restrict billboards to 16-square-foot size, compared with the 200-300-square-foot size of the existing billboards.

'I Wasn't Mad at Her, I Was Scared'—Finch

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A pistol in his hand, Dr. R. Bernard Finch stood over the man who is prosecuting him on a murder charge.

"I won't hit you," Dr. Finch assured deputy district attorney Fred N. Whichello, "I promise."

Whichello sat on the floor before the jury box, demonstrating the position the doctor said his wife was in when he hit her with a gun butt, fracturing her skull.

This blow, he said, was struck shortly before Barbara Jean Finch died—shot through the back.

The doctor maintains she was shot accidentally.

"I wasn't mad at Barbara," Finch testified Wednesday. "I was scared to death. I wasn't mad at her."

The doctor said his wife drew a gun from her car after he and Carole Tregoff confronted her in the garage of their home late last July 18 to discuss a divorce.

Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, his 23-year-old mistress, are charged with murder.

"When I jerked it (the gun) away from her, Mr. Whichello, I grabbed her head—and jerked it forward and went bang!"

Here Finch swung the pistol butt close to the prosecutor's temple. Whichello rose and resumed his cross-examination:

"You knocked Barbara down and out with the butt of the gun, and then turned your attention to whoever was arriving—is that right?"

"That's right," said Finch. Finch testified earlier that he grabbed Marie Anne Lidholm, the Finch's 19-year-old maid, as she ran into the garage and pushed her head violently against the garage wall, leaving her semi-conscious. He said he then made the women get into the car so he could drive to the hospital.

STRIKE THREE COMING, OR WILL BRODIES HIT?

Third time lucky? Brodies hope so. The Bakers have marked up the unique feat of reaching all three finals in knockout competitions sponsored by the Victoria and District Soccer League this season.

In Jackson and McGavin Cup finals, however, Brodies failed to nail down final honors.

Saturday they hope to snap that string when they face Eycoes in the Island zone final of Province Cup play. Game time at Athletic Park is 2 p.m.

THE SCOREBOARD

BY

Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA)—When Slater (Dugie) Martin retires from the St. Louis Hawks, this year or next, the sub-six-footer in professional basketball will be as extinct as the dodo bird.

Martin says this, and so does almost any man connected with the National Basketball Association. It's not the Wilt Chamberlain or Bill Russell, who's the freak. It's Martin, who stands 5-10 like you and me and has managed to exist for 11 years against guys a head taller.

"Most little guys are through in this league," explains Martin, "before they start because they come in feeling they haven't got a chance—or they lack desire."

"Then no coach will give them much of a look-see. I know the big players give 'em just one look in camp and say among themselves, 'We'll knock that little blanket-blank down.'

"After two or three times he'll probably pack up and go home. Before the 24-second shooting rule came into the NBA I'd get knocked down two or three times regularly whenever the other team went on offence. Like my first year against the Chicago Stags, I'd be on Max Zaslosky. He'd run down the court behind Odie Spears (a burly 6-6). Spears would knock me over and then when I'd get up, he'd run behind Andy Phillip.

"I had my nose broken three times that first season."

Other little men have braved it in the NBA and played well. The list includes Al Cervi, Bullet Bill Gabor, Buddy Jeannette, Freddy Scolari, Kenny Sailors, Red Holtzman, Stan Stutz, Ernie Calverly and even 5'8" Buckshot O'Brien. But, amazingly, not since Whitey Skoog retired from the Lakers after playing a few games in 1956, has Martin had company under six feet in the pro ranks.

Chet Forte of Columbia, Robin Freeman of Ohio State, and Al Seiden of St. John's have failed. They were all sensational scorers in college ranks. And maybe that's the trouble.

The shooting is highly overrated," Martin shakes his head. "Sure, you've got to have the touch, but to survive in this league, the little man as a rookie has got to be three years ahead of his competition in basketball knowledge."

"He's got to be able to 'pick' on the other side of the court, away from the ball. He's got to play defence."

But what does he do when he's matched up with someone like Richie Guerin of the Knicks, who's 6-4 and likes to take little Dugie into the pivot?

"I swear! I can't anything under the boards, but I can run. I gamble by overplaying them. I play 'em close without the ball. And sometimes it hurts them as a team because how can a back-court man on Philly take you into the pivot, when Wilt Chamberlain is already there?"

At 34, it should be noted, Martin is also the oldest man in the league. "But if Ben Kerner (the Hawks' owner) wants me," he shrugs, "I'll play another year."

That's because you can't always get an old, smart head like Martin. Take how he adjusted to Bill Russell, the pogo stick of the Boston Celtics. A year ago, driving in, Martin would always stop and freeze short of the basket because Russell was there to stick up a paw. The other night he went in twice. Russell was there, but both times Martin got the ball past him and into the nets. How?

"I've learned to float and watch him at the same time," he says. "I put the ball out and take it back. Make him commit himself, and then shoot."

Sounds easy. Maybe Martin can tell other little guys like Max Williams, now at SMU, or Pickles Kennedy, the Temple ace, what to do.

"Sure. Go get a real good job and go to work."

Courtenay Supplies Stiffest Viking Test

Victoria University's high-flying Vikings are looking forward to one of their stiffest basketball tests of the year.

The city junior champs will meet Courtenay High School Friday night at the Gordon Head gym in the feature half of an exhibition doubleheader.

The up-Island squad has beaten Vikings earlier this season.

In the preliminary game, the University's 'B' team will go against Victoria High School Totems.

Saturday, the Vikings host University of B.C. Jayvees in another exhibition doubleheader and Courtenay takes on the University 'B's in the opener.

Fred Kimberley, Russ Kowalchuk and Bob Jones completed the tally.

Only 282 Fans Cheer On Chiefs

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Kamloops Chiefs scored a 7-5 win over Kelowna Packers Wednesday in a ragged Okanagan Senior Hockey League game before 282 fans.

Gutowski and Dagg hooked up again this morning in an other match that promised to be thriller, meeting in the A primary with the winner advancing to the quarterfinals.

Tonight Gutowski and Harper clash in the top half of the B competition quarterfinals.

Gutowski now has posted a 10 record while Harper is 7-1.

Dagg follows with 6-1.

Cook's loss was his second one-point defeat in a row after six straight wins and eliminated him from the bonsipiel.

ZONE WINNERS

In the B event today, zone winner Ray Vintners of Vancouver met Eric Bisgrove of Kimberley and Summerland's Herb Lemke played Harry Stizaker of Port Alberni.

The two winners clash in the bottom half of the quarterfinals in B event.

Meeting in early draw today in the A competition were Ray Ottén and Joe McKinnon of Kamloops; Gutowski and Dagg; Reg Stone, Trail, and Gar Taylor, Victoria; and Lloyd Neff, Vancouver, and Mickey Brennen, Trail.

TAYLOR, HARPER IN CONTENTION

Tony Pounding Hard On That Back Door

KELOWNA—Tony Gutoski, backed by the fine all-around play of his front men, entered today's competition at the 65th annual British Columbia bonspiel as the only undefeated skip.

Victoria's 1958 B.C. champion is attempting to reach the B.C. championship round via the back door by entering the finals in one of the two primary events.

Assured of positions in the double-draw knockout event are the 10 rinks who qualified through victories in zone championships.

Gutoski scored a hard-fought, extra-end, 7-6 victory over Vancouver's tough Lyall Dagg in the fifth round of the B primary event Wednesday night.

"I've learned to float and watch him at the same time," he says. "I put the ball out and take it back. Make him commit himself, and then shoot."

Impressive Tour Mark Lifts Dutchies' Spirit

VANCOUVER (CP)—Kit, them and Canada's hockey hopes pinned on their sleeves, were to leave today for Squaw Valley, Calif., and the 1960 Winter Olympics.

Dutchies Wednesday recorded their seventh win in as many starts on their warmup western tour with an impressive 6-1 victory over Trail Smoke Eaters of the Western International League before 2,700 fans.

They play their first Olympic game against Sweden on the opening day, Feb. 18.

Kitchener, playing its third game in as many nights, looked tired when they took the ice against WIHL-leading Trail but had good control of the game throughout.

OUTPLAYED

They outshot Smoke Eaters 27-13, pulled ahead 1-0 in the first period and fired three goals in the second to gain a comfortable lead.

Bobby Atterley, a Whithy Dunlop import for the touring British side, led Whitby to its 1958 world hockey championship over Russia, scored three goals: Jim Connelly, Fred Eicher and Bobby Rous.

Trail's lone marker came in the third period from Norm Lenardon.

The two winners clash in the bottom half of the quarterfinals in B event.

Meeting in early draw today in the A competition were Ray Ottén and Joe McKinnon of Kamloops; Gutowski and Dagg; Reg Stone, Trail, and Gar Taylor, Victoria; and Lloyd Neff, Vancouver, and Mickey Brennen, Trail.

Cougars Clobber Comets; Fashaway on Goal Spree

By DOUG PEDEN

Ask a few of the Victoria youngsters who packed the place for the "Pony Night" program what happened at Memorial Arena Wednesday night and you'll undoubtedly get a variety of answers.

But they'll be consistent in some replies.

All except one will say they didn't win the pony that was given away as a door prize at the Western Hockey League game between Victoria Cougars and Spokane Comets.

That pleasure went to George Gerrard, 910 Dale Street.

Most will relate sadly that they didn't collect any of the many other prizes that city merchants donated for the small fry who made up the bulk—and most of the noise—of the crowd of approximately 5,300 fans and were responsible for the sale of 6,361 tickets.

They should all recall that the Cougars put on an impressive show as they clobbered the Comets, ending a four-game Spokane win streak with a free-wheeling 7-1 triumph.

Only a few of the young ones can be expected to know that the win boosted the Cats into a three-way tie with Seattle and Edmonton in the WHL chase, nine points behind the front-running Vancouver Canucks. That kind of figuring is for grown-ups.

TIME OUT! BY JEFF KEATE

The Old Grey Rocket Still Packs a Punch

Like the old grey mare, Rocket Richard ain't what he used to be. But what he is can still give the opposition fits.

At 38, the legs and reflexes which made him the National Hockey League's highest scorer have slowed. But the fire and the knowledge are still there and sometimes, when everything is right, he looks like the Rocket of old.

Wednesday night was one of those times. Montreal Canadiens, missing three of their more potent marksmen, were in Toronto against the Maple Leafs and the Rocket took up the slack, scoring twice in Montreal's 4-2 victory.

In Chicago, the Black Hawks whipped New York Range, 8-5, for their ninth victory in 11 games against New York

Ralph Backstrom and Claude Provost scored Montreal's other goals while Billy Harris scored Toronto's two.

They came before 14,651 fans, the largest crowd in Maple Leaf Gardens since Nov. 15, 1946, when the same two teams met. That time Leafs won, 3-0.

The game also saw the Toronto debut of Red Kelly, obtained only the same day from Detroit Red Wings in a trade for Marc Reaume. Kelly was used at centre and took a turn on the point on power plays.

ROUGH GAME

In Chicago, where their victory put back Hawks once again in sole possession of fourth place, much of the action was of the illegal variety.

Referee Frank Udvari handed out 25 penalties, 13 to Rangers. But despite four different brawls, the only major went to rook Bill Hay of Chicago, for inflicting a seven-stitch cut near defenceman Jack Bowens' right eye.

During more peaceful moments Pierre Pilote, Tod Sloan, Murray Balfour, Earl Balfour and Ken Wharram scored for Chicago and Andy Heberton collected Rangers' only goal.

On Balfour's goal, goalie Glenn Hall was given an assist—the first for a netminder this season. Hall cleared the puck to Glen Skov who passed it along to Balfour.

Vic Side Upset By Mount View

Mount View High School's senior soccer team upset Victoria High 3-2 Wednesday.

Al Boden capped a two-point performance with the winning goal five minutes before the final whistle.

The other Mount View goal came from Larry Johnson. Tallys were made by Fred Potts and Dave Rees.

ORDERED BACK

Kelly, already in Toronto, was ordered by the board to report back to Detroit immediately or go on the league's retired list from which he could never emerge if even one NHL club objected.

Kelly reported back by simply picking up a telephone and calling Detroit general manager Jack Adams. NHL president Clarence Campbell said that was sufficient.

Billy McNeill, who bounced between the Red Wings and their farm clubs for four seasons, left Saturday for his home in Edmonton. The Wings said Wednesday no other clubs had expressed an interest in McNeill and they assumed his retirement was permanent.

HANNA SEEKS ADMISSION TO BRAZIL

TOKYO (AP) — A 22-year-old stateless seaman who claims to have wandered around the globe for 15 years seeking a permanent home is awaiting papers from Brazil permitting him to live there.

Permission for Christian George Hanna to live in Brazil is expected within the next three months, Japanese officials said.

Hanna is being detained at an immigration centre near Tokyo where he was brought after being taken into custody at Kamishiri in northern Japan last September on suspicion of trying to enter Japan illegally.

He had arrived at Kamishiri aboard the Liberian freighter Atlantic Governor.

PLEASURE AFLOAT

Plenty of Room for All That Power

Happiest man on Victoria's trailer boat "waterfront" is Jack Newton, who has moved his Coast Power Machines, Ltd., from crowded quarters at 2223 Government Street to a spanking new building at 2320 Government with 3,000 square feet of floor space.

The firm handles McCulloch-Scott outboard motors, in the power range of from 3½ to 60 horsepower, but is equally well known for its McCulloch chain saws.

Two types of outboard run-about are stocked—aluminum craft from the United States and a line of all-Canadian laminated birch hulls. (A 13-foot model in the latter, complete with 25-horsepower motor, trailer, tank and hardware makes an interesting package deal.)

A full line of accessories is carried, and a service department and repair shop presided over by Peter Hornby is equipped to care for all types of outboard motors.

Good news for boatowners is research into the speed of dolphins, which is going to raise boat speeds and lower gasoline consumption.

For years designers have noted that from 70 to 90 per cent of the gasoline burned in boats was used to overcome resistance due to tiny whirlpools established adjacent to the skin of the boat, and known as "drag due to turbulence."

For even more years biologists have known that dolphins can swim like the dickens, but it was not until 1946 that a man considered that the dolphin might have the answer to the boatman's plea for higher efficiency from his boat and engine.

That was the year that Dr. Max Kramer, who had made an extensive study of turbulence, came to the conclusion that dolphin skin, that effectively dampens the effects of turbulence. The development is called "boundary layer stabilization" by distributed damping," or simply "Laminflow."

Free Salk Serum For Over-40s Too

Vaccine Available to All As B.C. Extends Coverage

Anti-polio Salk vaccine will be offered free to everyone in the province this year, Health Minister Eric Martin said in the legislature Wednesday.

The extension of the immunization program which to date has covered persons up to age 40, was forecast in the throne speech.

Mr. Martin said polio after 40 is rare, but the program will be extended through local health offices and vaccine will be supplied free to doctors. "But they of course will have to charge for the cost of administering it."

He said the immunization program started in 1955 has cost a total of $900,000, the federal government contributing $475,000.

The minister said he was pleased to note that infant mortality in B.C. from all causes was the lowest in history last year—24.7 per 1,000 live births. The tuberculosis rate also declined to the lowest point ever—3.7 cases per 100,000 of population.

For the second year in a row there was no diphtheria in the province. But there was a marked increase in scarlet fever and streptococcal throat infections which result in rheumatic fever and heart conditions.

Paralytic polio was worse than any year since 1955 with 129 recorded cases and 14 deaths.

MORE NURSES

Mr. Martin noted there has been a 54 per cent increase in public health nursing staff to a high of 193. Seven new community health centres were started in B.C. in 1959 bringing the total to 43. In the current fiscal year the province has given $64,450 toward these centres.

In the field of mental health, he said, the government has constructed $12,500,000 worth of new buildings and provided 1,000 more beds for mental institutions in the past seven years.

He said the government is expecting to receive a report on B.C. mental health services this fall from the American Psychiatric Association, following hearings held throughout the province to assess the needs and services by Dr. Matthew Ross last summer.

The minister said there has been an 80 per cent increase in applications for mental health nursing work.

Political Motives Suspect in School Aid

FIREFIGHTERS USED SMOKE MASKS and fresh air breathing apparatus to get at flames in the second floor and attic of this Victoria West home from which a mother snatched her five children to safety this morning. Smoke shown billowing from windows and roof filled the house. (Times photo.)

Woman Braves Burns To Rescue Daughter

Car Fired In 3-Way Collision

One of three cars involved in a crash on Wilson near Russell caught fire and another left the scene at 7:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said the hit-run driver, a naval shipmate of the first driver, gave himself over to police at 9:45 p.m.

Firemen were called to the scene when smoke started out of one car, but fire damage was not believed serious.

John Loxterkamp, 827 Princess, drove west on Wilson when his car was in collision with one driven by Fred Werhun, of the same address, and both of HMCS Jonquierre, police said.

The impact caused Werhun's car to collide with a parked car owned by Fred Button, 2026 Chaucer, who was at the scene, police said.

Children Safe, Mother In Hospital As Fire Flares In Vic West Bedroom

A 25-year-old Victoria West woman was burned today rescuing her two-year-old daughter from a bedroom fire.

Mrs. Zora Poulton is in fairly good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital with burns on both hands and one of her feet.

The fire, at 403 Arm, was reported by Mrs. Poulton when she awoke from a nap at 10:50 a.m. to find the two-storey house owned by herself and husband Harold, filled with smoke.

Five Poulton children between the ages of six months and six years were all confined to the house today because of sickness, a neighbor said.

It was suggested to firemen that the fire may have started by the children playing with matches in an upstairs bedroom.

Flames burned quickly into the attic area and the inner roof, causing heavy damage there.

In the rest of the house smoke and water damage was expected to bring repair costs to a total of more than $1,200.

Tracy, the girl in the bedroom where Mrs. Poulton noticed the fire; Ricky, six; Debbie, five; Dena, 3½ and baby Wendy, all were taken from the house without injury and are being cared for by a neighbor on nearby Selkirk.

Another neighbor, Gerry Vowles, 928 Arm, said:

"I got here as the firemen arrived. There was smoke and flame coming out of the upstairs front window then. But they sure got it out in a hurry."

Mrs. Poulton was taken from the home of Mrs. W. H. Green, 809 Selkirk, by police ambulance.

"I took her up to the police at the fire when I saw what shape she was in," Mrs. Green said.

Mr. Poulton, who was called from his job as fireman, was mopping up, said there was full insurance coverage on house and contents.

AID FLOWS TO FAMILY HIT BY FIRE

Southern Vancouver Island residents are giving Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Arthur Jackson and their four children, who lost all their possessions Tuesday night when their house at Langford was gutted by fire, a good start toward re-establishing a home.

There have been two promises of houses to rent—one of them rent-free for a month—and a veritable flood of household goods.

Doug Price of Langford and District Lions Club, which is sponsoring a drive to aid the family, said today that already enough beds and mattresses have been offered. Clothing, furniture, dishes, cooking utensils, and other articles also have been offered but more could be used he said. Arrangements can be made by calling GR 8-3515.

Mr. Guttman said school boards still don't know why some got supplementary grants and others did not. He said there was the fear of aggravated suspicions if Premier Bennett increases the province's share in Friday's budget speech in the legislature—unless the supplementary grant system is eliminated.

If the province pays more while retaining the supplementary grants, it will mean that even larger amounts are distributed at the last minute without any revealed basis of selection.

Mr. Guttman said school trustees are unable "to use judicial management" in setting their budgets because they do not know how much their government grants will be until the last minute as a result of the supplementary system.

Mr. Guttman said the revision of basic grants to realistic figures so that a pre-calculated lump sum grant be available to each school district.

Mr. Guttman also struck out at the provincial government's insistence that school boards borrow the entire amount for capital construction even though the government pays 50 to 90 per cent.

This saves the government the cost of interest charges, and the promise to pay 50 per cent of overall provincial operating costs.

CHURCH HELPING

Also collecting articles for the family is the Dorcas Society of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, whose members will pick up articles promised.

They can be reached at EV 4-9998, GR 5-1579 or EV 5-2874.

Baby of the family, 15-month-old Gordon, is staying with Mrs. Pam Clarke at 1193 Gondstream Avenue in Langford, while the rest of the family are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Malcolm.

The fire broke out while Mrs. Jackson was with Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm at an automatic laundry in Victoria. Children of the two families had been left at the Malcolm home with Mr. Jackson in charge, and it was he who noticed the fire and gave the alarm.

BUILD HOUSE

It was suggested today by Bill Archer, 1826 Government Street, that a crew of carpenters might get together and build the Jacksons a house on the site of the burned building.

"I'd be willing to go along," he said. "I'm 85 years old and no carpenter, but I could do odd jobs. These things have been done in Victoria before."

Mr. Jackson was making mortgage payments of $100 per month on the ruined home, and no insurance was carried.

Problem Caused By Interference

"That proves we can afford to pay the cost," he said. "I consider it bad because that represents $316 per pupil per year, or $1.56 a day."

"That's only 30 cents an hour for instruction of each pupil."

Mr. Spraggé said the financing problem was caused by interference of the provincial government in local autonomy, through:

Inequitable grants; lack of prior knowledge of supplementary grants; virtual veto power over any school construction; prohibition of any long-term planning by an arbitrary three-year limit on construction referendums; and other restrictions.

Mr. Spraggé said the Elizabeth Fisher Junior High School construction fiasco was an example of "the sort of inefficiency that arises out of centralized control."

The government would write a book for its civil servants and education throughout the province would be conducted strictly by that book whether it was good or bad for individual areas," he said.

University of Victoria Prof. R. J. Bishop was moderator. Other panel members were restricted to asking questions.

Detectors trying to solve the theft of $7,326 from St. Joseph's Hospital Monday night were without a positive clue today in an intensified investigation.

Chief John Blackstock said there were no new leads to report in what is believed to be an "inside" job or one involving "inside" help.

The loot, in cash and cheques belonging to the hospital and hospital patients, plus a quantity of jewelry held in safekeeping for patients, was taken from a safe and cupboard in the billing department adjoining a main corridor sometime between 9:20 p.m. Monday and 8:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Neither the office door, the safe nor the cupboard showed signs of forcible entry, although each were reported to have been locked Monday night.

Sister Superior Mary Ann Celeste, the hospital administrator, told police a billing office door key went missing about two weeks ago and a replacement which did not fit the billing department door appeared in its place some time Monday.

This and the apparent facility with which the thief occurred suggested to police complete familiarity with the premises.

TAXES TANGLED

Hushed-Up Assessment Protested

ATOMIC SCIENTIST Dr. J. W. T. Spinks, new president of the University of Saskatchewan, will be heard in Victoria, Feb. 18, addressing a meeting of the Victoria branch of the U of S Alumni Association at the Pacific Club at 7:30.

A Sooke school trustee Wednesday complained that the provincial government refuses to disclose the district's assessment roll to the school board.

Trustee R. J. Weir, at a public meeting in Belmont

High School, said this handicaps the board in its efforts to contain school taxes within reasonable limits.

As an example, he said last year the board, noting increased construction, anticipated the total assessment would increase substantially. In actual fact it went down when the provincial government released the figure.

"By devious means we finally found out why," said Mr. Weir. "B.C. Electric, which has large power holdings here, had its assessment reduced by 30 per cent, which took $128,500 off the assessment roll."

Stamp Briefs Sought

Briefs from interested groups or individuals on the question of trading stamps were called for today by Dan Campbell (SC-Cormorant), chairman of a special legislative committee.

Mr. Campbell said the terms of reference of the committee, which held its first meeting today, limit its field on inquiry to trading stamps and not "similar sales promotion devices" as announced in the throne speech.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner earlier said trading stamps, although they have been a centre of controversy in the east, have not been a real problem in B.C. He knew of very few cases where they were used.

ACTION TAKEN

But his department took action recently against a Vancouver grocery chain over use of so-called bonus cards which permit customers to build gift credits through purchases. The matter is still in court.

Mr. Campbell said hearings by his 14-member committee will begin late next week.

Briefs have been requested from Associated Boards of Trade, Retail Merchants' Association, B.C. Federation of Labor, Associated Chambers of Commerce, an association of department stores, B.C. Co-operative Wholesale, Co-operative Union of Canada, B.C. Federation of Agriculture, the Consumers' League and Auto-motive Retailers' Association.

"First job will be to clarify the status of any existing legislation which might apply," said Mr. Campbell, then the committee will start hearing briefs. Arvid Lundell (SC-Revelstoke) is secretary of the hearings and will schedule the brief presentations.

Detectives trying to solve the theft of $7,326 from St. Joseph's Hospital Monday night were without a positive clue today in an intensified investigation.

FOR BOULEVARDS

Saanich Goes Gay With Trees

Saanich municipality will plant boulevard trees this year for the first time since maples were planted on Shelburne 41 years ago as a war memorial.

Council has approved a $2,000 budget for the program. It will provide at least 250 trees for planting along main streets.

Some will replace Shelburne maples, north of Cedar Hill Cross Road, which will be removed in a few years when that section of the road is widened.

Councillors indicated a preference for flowering trees over native varieties such as oak, elm and maple.

Councillor Gregory Cook led the discussion on types of trees with a prepared list of flowering varieties he preferred.

For a time, the council chamber echoed to technical designations like pissaria, kamzam and yoshino. Finally, at suggestion of Reeve George Chatterton, the selection was turned over to the parks superintendent.

Why is it that at this time of year our hair seems to get dirty so much more quickly? Whatever the reason, there's not too many of us that can afford to run to the hairdressers every time we should.

To make hair washing at home easier it might be wise to get one of the hair sprays that sell for 89 cents. These have five feet of rubber hose for easy manipulation and would double to make an ideal bath spray. Adjustable nozzle fits all faucets and spray end has rubber bristles for gentle massaging.

If your house is anything like ours the young men in the family are continually borrowing kitchen knives for all their youthful projects. Best solution to this problem is to get some of the scalloped edge knives that stay sharp so much longer than the regulation style. Inexpensive, one with an 8½-inch-blade costs $1.29, 7½-inch $1, and paring knife, 49 cents. Six-inch utility knife is priced at 79 cents.

These are wonderful for bread, roasts, in fact, all kitchen uses. They can be easily sharpened by a few strokes with a honing stone.

Men's fancy vests are becoming more popular than ever this year. One store I was in this week had a brand new shipment. All were priced at $8.95.

Many of them were in classic Paisley pattern and all were reversible. This means that when he tires of the design, man of the house just turns it the other way and wears a vest in a complimenting solid color.

There were vests in both black and brown cotton velvet but faintly they were made of strong sturdy cotton. Front of vest was trimmed with five buttons. Just the thing for the well-dressed man!

Frilly cape and cape adds glamorous touch to the "common cold".

Frivolous Boudoir Needs

Even being in bed with a cold can be fairly glamorous today. Fashion has invaded the field of the virus with new types of boudoir accessories that are frivolous, fanciful and fun to wear.

For instance, boudoir bonnets are with us again and they do a nice cover-up job over pin-curts or hair made limp by a fever. Our model wears an extravagantly ruched version—a row upon row of powder-puff pink nylon net frilled onto a bonnet of rose-sprigged nylon and topped with a "diamond" centred bow!

To match is the little shoulder-shelter cape that provides just enough extra warmth in a heated room. It is made with two pockets nicely sized for holding hankies, or, if you use the cape for the purpose for which it is designed—that is: for makeup—the then the pockets will hold come or a powder puff. DEAR ABBY . . .From the Sublime to the Ridiculous

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What can be talking. Forget the ugly incident and maybe the girl's mother will, too. In the meantime, stay away from her house and pray for an "all clear" signal. But don't be surprised if it never comes. Most mothers are allergic to foul-mouthed boys.

DEAR MRS. L.: If the entire human population hasn't already committed suicide with the mass exchange of germs that must take place while kissing—let's not worry about the few stray ones on a birthday cake.

DEAR ABBY: I recently got very mad at my girl friend and I called her up and yelled at her. I used a bit of language I should not have used only to learn that it was her mother I was yelling at.

The next day I was told by this girl that her mother never wanted to see my face at her house again.

Abby, I know I was wrong. But I would like to know if I should call her mother and try to explain. I like this girl very much and know she likes me, too.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Real Vision of Geriatrics: To Stay Younger Longer

Many folks are misled by the terms "gerontology" and "geriatrics". It is true that medical care of the aged is one branch of these but the real vision is to prolong the youthful portion of life by putting prevent a tive medicine into practice long before a acute conditions arise.

For instance, the medical profession knows that the average man or woman of 60 or more is very likely to be calcium poor, iron poor and protein poor. The idea is to prevent the development of such conditions long before that age with hygienic living, diet, and medication when needed.

The geriatric physical examination is much more comprehensive than the usual check-up because the body is tested under stress and the doctor is looking for any weaknesses which may give trouble later on unless they are attended to now, as well as for any acute condition which may exist.

It is really a shame that everyone does not have geriatric exams at least once a year.

You should not wait to see your physician until pain or discomfort are present, but should give him an opportunity to check you over at regular intervals. So much more zest could be added to future years.

What good is it to live a long time, unless you can enjoy it?

ANY WAY I CHOOSE TO SERVE THEM, the family loves the succulent goodness of AYLMER FANCY PEAS

—ASSORTED SIZES: I serve them topped with butter, or in stews, or this new, exciting way, in a casserole—Aymer Fancy Peas with a can of Aymer Cream of Mushroom Soup in the bottom of a casserole dish. Season with salt and pepper, and top with french-fried onion rings. Heat in a 350 deg. F. oven for about 30 minutes.

Easy? Yes, and it's truly a gourmet dish made with Aymer Fancy Peas. You see, Aymer Peas are grown on selected Canadian farms, harvested at flavour peak and rushed to nearby canneries where they are sealed and cooked, often within the hour. Next time you shop, look for the bright, white cans labelled Aymer Peas. Assorted Sizes.

"I HAD BEEN TROUBLED by attacks of rheumatic pain ever since I was a child. Finally a neighbor urged me to try TRC's. Very shortly after starting to take them, I found relief for the first time. From the Maritimes comes this word of another who has been freed from long drawn-out agonies of rheumatic, neuritic or arthritic pain. Some who have found relief through TEMPLETON'S TRC's had been in pain for a long time. For others, it had been a new agony. Some found help quickly, while others had to persist, wisely, until they were free. Do try TRC's yourself — and tell others about them.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTRÉAL, Feb. 11th—Happy day ahead! Seems to me it's a wise thing to enjoy a breakfast of piping hot RED RIVER CEREAL as the start for a hard-working, cheery day. You'll like the nutty, wholesome blend of cracked wheat, rye and flax—as nourishing as it's delicious. Red River brings energy values to youngsters and active workers, and guards regularity for older folks or sedentary workers. So, when I say Red River is good for everyone—I really mean it. Easy to cook; costs so little, too. For generations, men, women and children have been enjoying Red River. Do try it yourself!

ABOUT TOWN

Visitors From Many Places

By Judy Nicholson

Our delightfully mild climate (or perhaps I should say our "sun-kissed wonderland" as one reporter wrote recently) brings us many visitors from the cold, cold prairies at this season of the year.

According to Mrs. B. Bailey who is visiting here from her home in Edmonton, the West Coast area is perfect for a short winter vacation.

"It's so restful and warm. Why it's almost as good as a cruise down south!" she exclaims.

Mrs. Bailey, one-time owner of the Royal Hotel at Peace River, is staying at the Dominion Hotel. "I've many friends in this city — all ex-Peace River people!" she says. With Mrs. Bailey is her companion, Mrs. C. O'Neil, Peace River. This is her first visit to Vancouver Island.

Also at the Dominion Hotel on a brief trip are Mr. and Mrs. Neil MacMillan of Winnipeg.

"I'm retiring next year," declares Mr. MacMillan "and my wife and I are thinking seriously of settling here."

At present Mr. MacMillan is on the sales staff of a Winnipeg newspaper.

Victoria is a stopover on a nation wide "goodwill tour" being taken by Mr. and Mrs. Florian Niederer of Zurich, Switzerland. Mr. Niederer is representing the Swiss National Tourist Office.

Talking to Mrs. Niederer at the Empress Hotel where she and her husband are staying, I was told that Victoria is the "quietest" city she had visited all across Canada.

"We took a drive around the waterfront one morning and I told my husband that this beautiful city is the type of place where I'd like to live," she said.

The Niederers have three sons and a daughter. "But they are all grown up now," says their mother.

Head of the household while her parents are off on a holiday cruise to the Hawaiian Islands is Miss Janet Chapman, daughter of Mr. Cyril Chapman, manager of Empress Hotel, and Mrs. Chapman. From her desk at the Automobile Club on Government Street, where she is employed, Janet looks across to her "house," as her friends call the Empress Hotel.

First United Church was setting for double ring ceremony with Rev. A. I. Higgins officiating.

Bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carle B. Gibson of Victoria and groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Goldby, also of Victoria.

Salmon pink gladioli, carnations and white stocks decorated church. Traditional organ music was played by Mrs. Roberto Wood. Bride was given in marriage by her father.

Blue peau-de-soie dresses were worn by two attendants, Mrs. Jack Abercrombie, matron of honor, and Miss Frances Cooke, bridesmaid.

Accessories were in white and they had blue rhinestone ear-

Robert Burns McMicking Chapter Praised by Honorary Vice-Regent

A "banner" chapter was compliment paid Robert Burns' McMicking Chapter, IODE, by Mrs. J. L. Gates, honorary vice-president, at its 42nd annual meeting, Tuesday evening, Regent, Miss Alison Chrone.

said Mrs. Gates: "Here is a group of 40 women who are striving earnestly and succeeding to keep up their chapter's unforgettable motto, 'Act well your part; there all the honor lies.'

Receipts for 1959 amounted to $1,720.27. This was reported by treasurer, Mrs. H. Buckle. Disbursements totalled $1,464.02. Fund raising events included a dinner, coffee party, rummage sales, smorgasbord, contests, fashion show and hors d'oeuvre party.

EDUCATION Regent, Miss Alison Chrone presided. In her report she stressed that though results of activities during past year had been carried out in a splendid manner, chapter members must by no means rest as there are so many IODE projects which require help.

Prof. Selman was introduced by Mrs. A. H. Sheard and thank yous by Mrs. F. Bliss.

Gaglardi Blocks Road, It's Up to Lumbermen

(From Duncan Bureau) An eight-man Duncan Cowichan Chamber of Commerce delegation to Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi was told

Wednesday that the highways department has no money for a new eight-mile piece of Cowichan Lake Road west of Duncan.

New Shopping Centre Planned for Duncan?

(From Duncan Bureau)

Two acres of Indian land on Trunk Road have been leased by Capital Holdings of Vancouver, a company which builds shopping centres.

Company officials have not yet disclosed plans either to property owners or the Indian Affairs Branch and they could not be contacted for comment. However, one of the property owners said a house on the land will be moved to let construction start in the spring.

DEEP-SEA SHIPS IN PORT

(Morning Positions)

Victoria—Thorpe Grange, Freeland, Utah, Baron Herries.

Cowichan Bay—Andros Pilgrim.

Chemainus—Rog.

Crofton—Norden, Geestemunde, Moldanger.

Tahsis—Polyxene, Ditmar Koel.

Duncan Bay—Duncan Bay, Alberni—Audrey, Haldor Virik, Irchester, Annitsa A.

H. C. Stone, president of Hillcrest Lumber Co., J. G. Stothers, manager of Western Forest Industries Ltd., and W. J. Connery, manager of the Cowichan Division of B.C. Forest Products Ltd., were asked by the minister to build the road themselves.

Mr. Gaglardi said the lumber companies might do the job for half the estimated cost of $65,000 a mile and that the government would repay the cost over a period of time.

Resolving the road to eliminate a number of curves and two railroad grades has long been a project of the chamber. Lumber companies are anxious to improve the road because of the heavy truck traffic in lumber and chips from the Cowichan Lake mills.

The lease has been approved by the band council and the Indian department, according to Chief Elwood Modeste, Cowichan band.

Big Marina Plan For Pender Is.

PENDER ISLAND — First large commercial development mooted in years is planned for this island.

It will be a marina, complete with cottages, main lodge, an artificial fresh-water lake and other features.

Property of a fish reduction plant which burned last fall has been purchased by Shingle Bay Resorts Ltd., a Vancouver firm.

Fresh water flowing across the property will be dammed to make the lake, to be stocked with trout.

Mr. Gaglardi's opinion remained unchanged from that given a delegation in 1958. He said his department had no money for the job, and that the road would cost half a million dollars.

Cowichan Lake Road is in the hard-surface class and money to relocate a road of this type is difficult to appropriate, the minister said.

Herb Doman, chamber delegate and owner of Doman's Transport Ltd., said truckers paying large amounts in overlength fees want the money used to build roads. His company is paying $25,000 per annum, at five cents a mile, because Cowichan Lake Road is in a class two category and below standard, he said.

EXTRA REJECTED

Police A-Plenty Duncan Decides

(From Duncan Bureau)

A request from Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce that Duncan city council arrange a system of police protection that would enable citizens to contact RCMP at all times was rejected this week by the council.

"I don't think there is a time that you can't get police if you really need them," Ald. J. H. Saunders, acting mayor, told chamber officials.

City clerk Gordon Berry said the round-the-clock protection would require three additional RCMP at a cost of $12,000, or three mills on the tax rate. Mr. Berry said the city now has a portion of three RCMP salaries to pay at the rate of $3,605 per man, as well as $2,400 for a guard.

Council noted a guard is on duty when there are prisoners, and at other times the RCMP can be alerted by the telephone operator calling Victoria long-distance and a police radio calling back to this area. Council decided there are "plenty of police here" during daylight hours.

Chamber Given Grant, Exemption

DUNCAN—The city council has approved a grant of $200 for the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, and the York Road Chamber of Commerce tourist building property was exempted from 1960 taxes.

A $200 grant and about $250 property tax exemption have been given the chamber since 1958.

Pressure Not Road to Peace—Khrushchev

NEW DELHI India (CP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev told Parliament today all international disputes should be settled on the principle of peaceful co-existence.

"The way out of all disputes should be sought through negotiations and not through pressure and dictation," the Soviet premier said in the first major speech of his tour-nation "peace and friendship" tour of Asia.

Addressing a joint session of parliament he seemed to be making a strong plea for a negotiated settlement in the bitter dispute between India and Red China over 50,000 square miles of their border territory.

Khrushchev received a huge ovation from standing members as he passed down the aisle, clasping his hands before his face in the traditional Indian greeting.

Vice-President Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan introduced him as "a courageous fighter for peace."

Said Khrushchev: "We can easily foresee when countries of Asia which only yesterday were oppressed colonies will be among the most advanced nations of the world. The nations of Asia and Africa are starting to build new lives for themselves."

"Our sympathy always has been on the side of countries like Cuba, which is actively defending its national and economic independence."

"The Soviet Union is always ready to render disinterested support for those countries struggling against age-old economic backwardness."

This declaration by Khrushchev drew loud applause.

Khrushchev received full

V.I.P. treatment when he arrived here today but with none of the tumult or crowds that welcomed President Eisenhower in December.

Between 100,000 and 200,000 persons turned out to cheer the Soviet premier as he started his Asian tour—a marked contrast to the million and more who welcomed the American president.

Later this afternoon Khrushchev paid a 45-minute courtesy call on Prime Minister Nehru and opened their political and economic talks.

Beaming and waving his white Panama hat to thin lines of flag-waving Indians, the Soviet premier seemed either unaware or undaunted by the comparison of the welcomes.

A major reason for the smaller crowds today may have been tighter security controls, ordered to prevent the motorcade from being blocked even once. And Khrushchev is paying a return visit to India, having been here four years ago.

Khrushchev is receiving the same head-of-state treatment as Eisenhower. He is attending a similar state banquet, is addressing both houses of Parliament and will even sleep in the same bed.

Khrushchev and his large party of relatives and Soviet officials arrived after an overnight flight from Moscow in a big Ilyushin turbo-prop airliner.

In a brief prepared speech at Palam Airport, Khrushchev praised Nehru as one who "realized full well the significance of friendship between our countries and our common struggle for consolidation of peace and friendship among all nations".

He called personal visits between government leaders "one of the effective means of invigorating international atmosphere and promoting mutual understanding between states".

"Soviet-Indian co-operation in the international arena is of importance to securing a durable peace," he said. And he held out an invitation to Indian statesmen to visit Russia.

President Rajendra Brasad responded with praise for Soviet-Indian economic co-operation.

The visit is of great political and economic importance to India. The two countries sign today a $378,000,000 credit Russia has contributed to the third

MISSILE KILLS MISSILE IN U.S. ARMY TEST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army today claimed the first known kill of one supersonic missile by another missile.

The action took place Jan. 29 over White Sands, N.M., when a Hawk anti-aircraft missile scored a direct hit on its target, an Honest John missile.

The army disclosed this development in a short motion picture shown to reporters at the Pentagon. The show came after a briefing, with pictures, designed to uphold the army's contention that the administration should release funds to speed development of the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A mysterious satellite that the United States defence department said may be of Russian origin tumbled through space today. Moscow has said nothing about it.

SEAPLANE CRASHES

Train Hits Slide

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The CNR's westbound Super-Continental plowed into a 10-foot high rockslide near Spences Bridge, about 100 miles west of here, early today, derailing two engine units. No one was reported injured.

Plane Veers Into Mud

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Eight persons, including two crew members, escaped with a shaking up early today when a twin-engine plane, unable to land at Toronto, because of an accident at the Malton airport there, veered off a runway here and ended up in heavy mud. (See Emergency Session)

LONDON (Reuters)—The cabinet today held an urgent session to prepare emergency measures for a threatened nation-wide strike on the nationalized railroads at midnight Sunday.

Opposition Seeks Bill 43 Changes

Liberal and CCF bills which would revise sections of controversial Bill 43—the Trade Unions Act of the 1958 session—were introduced in the legislature Wednesday.

Rae Eddie (CCF-New Westminster) wants removal of the section of the act which holds unions legally responsible for the illegal actions of any member or agent, and presumes guilt of the union until it can prove its innocence.

Mr. Eddie's amendment would also remove a section which makes unions and management organizations legal entities which may be sued for damages in event of illegal strike or lockout.

All-Out Attack Order On Trapped Submarine

(UPI)—President Arturo Frondizi today ordered the Argentine navy to make an all-out attack on the mystery submarine believed trapped at the bottom of the Golfo Nuevo inlet some 650 miles southwest of here.

Frondizi also instructed the foreign office to be prepared to break diplomatic relations instantly with the country to which the submarine belongs.

Official sources said a massive attack by the combined surface and air strength of Argentina's armed forces would start at midnight.

Frondizi's orders were understood to have been issued after a new mid-morning sonar contact between Argentine surface craft and the mysterious submarine.

At least seven warships ranging from frigates to cruisers and scores of aircraft—including fighters, bombers and helicopters—will participate in the all-out blow.

Reports of one or more mystery submarines have had Argentina agog since Jan. 30.

Entirely unconfirmed reports Wednesday said that a second mystery submarine had appeared on the scene either to aid its sister ship in effecting repairs, or as a diversion to enable it to escape.

An unofficial report by the Argentine news agency Telam said a mystery submarine had surfaced in the Golfo Nuevo today and was engaged in combat with Argentine warships.

There was no confirmation.

WE'RE LIKE THE BEES IN GETTING OWN HOME

OTTAWA (CP)—When it comes to buying homes, Canadian workers are like bumblebees—they accomplish the seemingly impossible," the Royal Architectural Institute's committee on residential environment was told today.

The bumblebee, according to the theory of aerodynamics, can't fly because of its wing shape and size, but it flies anyway. Similarly, even though paid workers can't afford to buy homes, but they buy them anyway.

The brief said it takes an annual income of $7,800 for the first five years and $6,000 for the next 20 to buy even a modest home under the National Housing Act. Yet bureau of statistics figures showed the average industrial wage, assuming 52 weeks full employment at only $3,984.

ter, Princess Anne, and the ex-pected baby.

Douglas Aircraft Signs Agreement With French Firm

NEW YORK (UPI)—Douglas Aircraft Co. and SUD

Airline of France have announced a broad agreement to market and service their mutual products including the DC-8 and Caravelle jet airliners.

The agreement, officials of the two companies said, also involves manufacture of the two-engine French Caravelle by Douglas in the U.S. if the amount of new business proves large enough.

There is no immediate plan for the building of Douglas planes in France, the company spokesmen said, but such a step may lie in the future because SUD Aviation is located in the European common market area.

Woman Braves Burns To Rescue Daughter

Car 'Fired' In 3-Way Collision

One of three cars involved in a crash on Wilson near Russell caught fire and another left the scene at 7:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said the hit-run driver, a naval shipmate of the first driver, gave himself over to police at 9:45 p.m.

Firemen were called to the scene when smoke started out of one car, but fire damage was not believed serious.

John Loxterkamp, 827 Princess, drove west on Wilson when his car was in collision with one driven by Fred Werhun, of the same address, and both of HMCS Jonquierre, police said.

The impact caused Werhun's car to collide with a parked car owned by Fred Button, 2626 Chaucer, who was at the scene, police said.

Children Safe, Mother In Hospital As Fire Flares In Vic West Bedroom

A 25-year-old Victoria West woman was burned today rescuing her two-year-old daughter from a bedroom fire.

Mrs. Zora Poulton is in fairly good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital with burns on both hands and one of her feet.

The fire, at 403 Arm, was reported by Mrs. Poulton when she awoke from a nap at 10:50 a.m. to find the two-storey house owned by herself and husband Harold, filled with smoke.

Five Poulton children between the ages of six months and six years were all confined to the house today because of sickness, a neighbor said.

It was suggested to firemen that the fire may have started by the children playing with matches in an upstairs bedroom.

Flames burned quickly into the attic area and the inner roof, causing heavy damage there.

In the rest of the house smoke and water damage was expected to bring repair costs to a total of more than $1,200. Tracy, the girl in the bedroom when Mrs. Poulton noticed the fire: Ricky, six; Debbie, five; Dena, 3½ and baby Wendy, all were taken from the house without injury and are being cared for by a neighbor on nearby Selkirk.

Another neighbor, Gerry Vowles, 928 Arm, said:

"I got here as the firemen arrived. There was smoke and flame coming out of the upstairs front window then. But they sure got it out in a hurry."

Mrs. Poulton was taken from the home of Mrs. W. H. Green, 809 Selkirk, by police ambulance.

"I took her up to the police at the fire when I saw what shape she was in," Mrs. Green said.

Mrs. Poulton, who was called from his job as firemen were mopping up, said there was full insurance coverage on house and contents.

AID FLOWS TO FAMILY HIT BY FIRE

Southern Vancouver Island residents are giving Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Arthur Jackson and their four children, who lost all their possessions Tuesday night when their house at Langford was gutted by fire, a good start toward re-establishing a home.

There have been two promises of houses to rent—one of them rent-free for a month—and a veritable flood of household goods.

Doug Price of Langford and District Lions Club, which is sponsoring a drive to aid the family, said today that already enough beds and mattresses have been offered. Clothing, furniture, dishes, cooking utensils, and other articles also have been offered but more could be used he said. Arrangements can be made by calling GR 8-3515, he said.

CHURCH HELPING

Also collecting articles for the family is the Dorcas Society of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, whose members will pick up articles promised.

They can be reached at EV 4-9998, GR 5-1579 or CHURCH HELPING Baby of the family, 15-month-old Gordon, is staying with Mrs. Pam Clarke at 1193 Goldstream Avenue in Langford, while the rest of the family are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Malcolm.

The fire broke out while Mrs. Jackson was with Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm at an automatic laundry in Victoria. Children of the two families had been left at the Malcolm home with Mr. Jackson in charge, and it was he who noticed the fire and gave the alarm.

During the same period, revenue from property taxes for municipal purposes rose 140 per cent, but the corresponding 50 to 90 per cent.

Trustee Attacks System of Grants

By JOHN MIKA

A B.C. School Trustees Association official Thursday implied there is a suspicion the government is using supplementary school grants "as a political slush fund."

Arthur Guttman, Vancouver, BCSTA research director, blasted the refusal of the government to reveal the basis for distributing the extra grants when he spoke at Belmont High School during a panel discussion of school financing problems.

"When grants are made to districts without disclosing how they are distributed, it can only lead to suspicion," he said.

"There should be no room for any suspicion that a political slush fund exists, especially in education."

He told the 65 persons at the meeting sponsored by Sooke school board and Sooke Teachers' Association, that almost $1,000,000 was distributed at the last minute without any revealed basis of selection.

If the province pays more while retaining the supplementary grants, it will mean that even larger amounts are distributed at the last minute without any revealed basis of selection.

KELOWNA (CP) — Lyall Dagg's young Vancouver foursome scored a dramatic 8-6 victory over Victoria's Tony Gutoski to advance to the quarter-finals of the primary A competition at the 65th annual B.C. Bonspiel here today.

Facing elimination, Dagg came from behind to knock Gutoski over. It was the first loss for the 1958 B.C. champion and left the two rinks with identical 7-1 records.

Gutoski meets Glen Harper of Duncan in the top half of the B primary.

Reg Stone of Trail, six times B.C. champion, also remained in contention in the primary A event, eliminating Victoria's Gar Taylor 9-6 in an early draw. He meets Vancouver's Lloyd Neff in the A event quarter-finals.

The remaining quarter-finalists in the B primary were to be decided when Roy Vinters of Vancouver met Eric Bisgrove of Kimberley and Herb Lemke of Summerland tangles with Harry Stirzaker of Port Alberni.

CHAMPIONSHIP

The finalists in the two major competitions advance to the B.C. championship, which opens here Friday afternoon, along with the 10 zone winners.

Harper, Bisgrove and Vinters all are zone winners. The remaining rinks are trying to reach the championships via the back door. The winner represents B.C. at the Canadian championships in Fort William next month.

Today's results assure that was content to run out the at least 12 rinks will enter the rocks.

KHRUSHCHEV SAYS:

'Pressure Not Road to Peace'

NEW DELHI, India (CP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev told Parliament today all international disputes should be settled on the principle of peaceful co-existence.

"The way out of all disputes should be sought through negotiations and not through pressure and dictation," the Soviet premier said in the first major speech of his four-nation "peace and friendship" tour of Asia.

Addressing a joint session of parliament he seemed to be making a strong plea for a negotiated settlement in the bitter dispute between India and Red China over 50,000 square miles of their border territory.

Khrushchev received a huge ovation from standing members as he passed down the aisle clasping his hands before his face in the traditional Indian greeting.

Vice-President Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan introduced him as "a courageous fighter for peace."

Said Khrushchev: "We can easily foresee a

'Full House' For Budget On Friday

Premier Bennett is guaranteed a full house when he deals with his budget Friday afternoon.

The Speaker's office reported today that all reserved seats in the legislature have been allotted for days and a line-up is expected for the 100 "rush seats" in the public gallery.

COSTLY ERRORS

Three straight misses by Gutoski's front men allowed the Vancouver rink to set two rocks in the house and put up two well-placed guards.

Gutoski opened a path with his first and when Dagg was heavy on his last rock it gave the veteran skip a good but tricky chance to score at least two and win the game.

But for the first time in the match Gutoski was off. He was narrow, leaving Dagg's shot rock untouched.
